BATTERIES DON'T
LAST FOREVER

Something Motorists Will Learn to Their Advantage

After repeated inquiries as to what the life of a storage battery should be the subject has been covered in brief by the Kirkwood Electric company of this city. The company is one of all that its life depends upon its construction, its care and the service it receives.
"Taken all together a storage battery, well cared for, costs less to maintain than any other accessory as vital. If kept charged at proper rate and filled with pure water, the life of a first-class battery averages from one and a half years up.
"At the same time a battery, however well made and well cared for, will wear out and must be renewed. It is an electro-chemical apparatus constantly changing its condition to supply currents for lamps and starter. The better the materials, care and factory service, the longer its life. Some motorists believe a battery should last indefinitely, like a spring or an axle, but this belief is being overcome by the educational measures of progressive manufacturers who want their customers to know why certain facts are facts."
The Kirkwood Electric company has done much along these lines and the result is evident in the better care batteries are receiving everywhere.

Some remarkable trap shooting records have been made in recent tournaments several of which appear likely to withstand the shooting assaults of trap experts for a considerable period. Charles A. Young, a professional, broke 100 straight targets from the 23-yard mark on July 15 and just previous to Young's feat, A. B. Richardson broke 99 out of 100 from the 23-yard mark. As a result, the present world's records stand as follows: 16 yards, Charles G. Spencer, 565 straight; 21 yards, Harry S. Waller, 128 straight; 23 yards, A. B. Richardson, 99 straight; 23 yards, C. A. Young, 100 straight.

Hundreds of Miles Added to the Life of the Tire
by the Squeegie Tread

Observe the three continuous ribs encircling the tread of a Diamond Tire.

They give you a smooth tread ride (no bumpy projections) and minimize the danger of side slips.

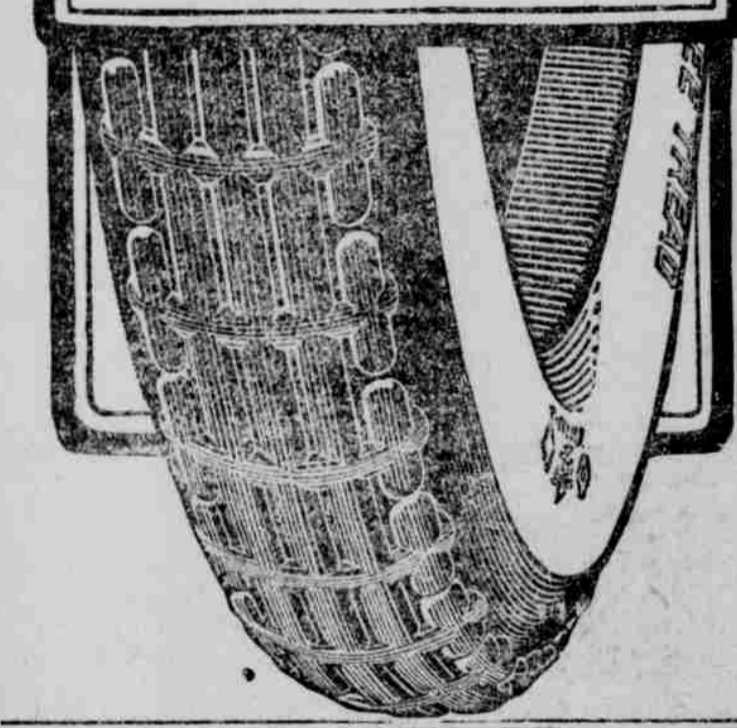

Note the many cross bars and side lugs. They give traction and prevent forward slide.

Then consider that this tire is made of a newly discovered compound so tough that the Squeegie bars rarely wear down during the life of the tire.

That gives you more non-skid security. Let us show you Diamonds that have traveled many thousands of miles above their guarantee. Then you'll wonder at their low Fair List price—the lowest of almost any of the standard makes.

Base Hits from the Tri-Copper League

By Bob Gleson

The postponing of Sunday's game between the Mill and Smelter on account of rain was the first time in two years that a game had to be called off for that reason.
The Pay club does not show to be as good an aggregation as the one that represented the Mines in the first series. They have only a few players that are hustling.
Sorey at short is not the ball player or Smelter was and Tabin left is in the same class as them.
The Smelter club will be about the services of second baseman Carries for a few days, as he suffered a very painful if not serious accident Sunday when a heavy piece of iron fell upon him and put him out of commission.
Smelter should go great as soon as Rick returns. Their pitchers are going well now and some of their hitters are just coming into their stride.
Johnny Lush the Millers "southern" is in first class shape now and will give any club a battle.
In his last game against the Smelter he was almost uncatchable.
